CAMP FIRES ARE BURNING

Political Meetings Every Night This Week.

BARKSDALE AND FLOOD

Both Will Appear in the Interests of Brauer-Mr. Todd Also Arranges for Series of Meetings-Last Days of Campaign.

Between now and Tuesday of next week, when the all-powerful ballot will smooth away the gathered difficulties that have sprung out of the recent pri-mary, and will once and for all settle the bitter strife that is literally rending the party in this section, Henrico county will pass through a period of political excitement, the like of which it has not known in many long years.

The last moments of the remarkable campaign will be marked by an intense activity on the part of the warring factions. The hot and bitter fight will grow more heated and more bitter with the passage of each of the seven or eight intervening days; the fuss and the fune will increase until it winds up in a grand outbreak that will leave some-body the worse for wear on election day. Every night the camp-fires will burn and the clans will gather around the political stump, from which will be spoken mighty words of counsel and denunciation. On the one hand will appear several of the select members of the insubordinate County Committee in behalf of their candidate; on the other will appear a brilliant array of State Committee material, including the author of the famous pure-election law, which was the starting point for the Henrico toughs, but which is now lost somewhere among the knots.

That there will in all truth be something doing, nobody doubts, From end to end of the county the welkin will ring with the call to arms. It is possible that now and then several meetings will be held on one night. Such a move is at least in contemplation, and it will mere than likely be carried out.

THE BRAUER ARRANGEMENTS.

While they are careful to guard against overconfidence, the Brauer forces appear absolutely certain of a complete victory. In such manner, at least, do the party managers of the Treasurer express themselves. The county is being thoroughly canvassed and campaign literature galore is being sent out.

Arrangements have been made for a meeting to be held at some precinct every night of the week except Saturday, and on Monday night of next week. This latter meeting will be announced later. During the present week several prominent speakers will appear, including Senator W. P. Barksdale, of Hallfax, and Congressman H. D. Fleed. To these meetings invitations have been issued to all Democrats in the name of the State Democratic Committee. The schedule, with the speakers, is as follows: The last moments of the remarkable campaign will be marked by an intense

On the Todd side an equally great movement of activity is being manifested. Mr. Todd said last night that he has been over the entire county and that his friends and the friends of Mr. Hochler are rallying solidly to his support. He is equally confident with Mr. Hauer of a victory, and expects to win his fight by a big majority. During the present week he will do a good deal of travelin over the county.

Arrangements have been made by the Todd forces for several meetings during the week. The dates, however, have not yet been definitely fixed. One of these meetings will be at Barton Heights, another at Shumaker's, a third at Chestnut Hill, and a fourth at Ridge Church. Among the speakers will be Chairman Ruffin, of the County Committee; Mr. St. George Coalter and Mr. W. K. Bache. It is expected that Dr. W. P. ATKINS-TYLER

An Exceedingly Pretty Marriage in the West En !.

West End.

Wednesday evening, October 21st, a most beautiful marriage was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tyler, No. 203 South Cherry Street, when their daughter, Miss Eva Regotta, became the bride of Mr. J. H. Atkins.

The parlors were beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and ferns, the colors being in white and green.

At 9:39 o'clock Mrs. Edward Burroughs sounded the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, and the bridal party entered the parlors. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. T. Bosman, of Park Place Methodist Church. Mr. W. Irvin Trimmer, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The bride was handsomely gowned in a mode suit, hat and gloves to match, and carried a lovely bouquet of Bride roses and maiden-hair ferns, which was sent from Washington.

from Washington.

After the ceremony the entire home was thrown open to the invited guests, and most delicious refreshments were served in great bounty.

The bride is one of the West End's fairest daughters, while the groom is a popular business man of Church Hill. Many costly and handsome presents were received, which attest the popularity of both.

EPISCOPAL

Young Minister Restored to All Rights Address of Bishop Randolph of Diocese of Southern Virginia Attracted Great Attention-Have a Keen Sense of Humor.

The Times-Dispatch Bureau, No. 1417 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., Oct. 24

The Pan-American Congress of Protestant Episcopal Bishops, which is just closing its session in this city, has attracted more attention than any religious gathering in Washington in a long composed the body, representing every impress their personality even upor cosmopolitan Washington, used as it is to men distinguished and otherwise fron the uttermost parts of the earth and the isles of the sea. It is much regretted that the meetings were held unind closed doors. Some of the Southern that the meetings were need genind closed doors. Some of the Southern bishops led the fight for sessions open or the pounce, but they were deteated.

However, much of what was done has transpired, and it is known that the sessions, while not without strong expressions of differing opinions, were nationous, and the members of the congress think that, as a whole, it has been or great benefit to the church. Perhaps the most significant feature we as the most significant feature we as the most significant feature of an American church, entirely independent of the Established Church of England. "It is coming," said a bishop from a Northern State, with whom I was in conversation in the library of a mutual friend one night this week. "I cannot say that I at present favor this movement, but I can plainly see, and I think others see also, that it will eventually triumph." triumph." THE NEGRO.

others see also, that it will eventually triumph."

THE NEGRO.

The paper read by Bishop Alfred Maggill Randolph, of the Southern Diocess of Virginia, on "The Evangelization of the Negro," was easily the most commented upon of all those which were heard by the congress. The reputation of Bishop Randolph as a careful, conservative and wise leader in the church, and the fact that he came from a section where the negro problem is one constantly in the minds of thoughtful people, predisposed the congress to hear him. He declared emphatically that the Southern States which had limited negro suffrage had acted wisely, and that such action had removed obstacles to the spiritual, moral and intellectual development of the race. The great need of the negro, Bishop Randolph said, as a foundation upon which to build education, the character for civilization and stability in religion, in family life, family law, family religion, and family fidelity. It was this portion of the address that created a most profound impression.

One would not expect to find in a congress of venerable bishops the good stories which I picked up among them the past week. Solamn, and dignified they appear in public, but for a really jolly and thoroughly entertaining company, give me two or three bishops. When Pat was asked what avocation in life he would prefer to all others, he replied, after serious reflection: "Well, for a ra-al, clane, alsy job, O! think Oi'd ruther be a bishop." I am not disposed to agree with Pat after hearing the stories of hardships encountered by many of the churchmen in the earlier years of their ministry, but I am still of the opinion that they are, on the whole, a class of men wonderfully familiar with that mysterious thing we call human nature, an expression on everybody's tongue, yet whose meaning is so vague to the most of us.

A distinguished bishop from a State of us. GOOD STORY. A distinguished bishop from a north of Washington was telling a group of us the other night of his experiences while he occupied the bishopric of one of the Northwestern Territories. He had rethe Northwestern Territories. He had re-lated the story of many a peculiar adven-ture and hardship. When he was on the point of leaving the Territory to accept the bishopric he now holds, he was mak-ing his final visitations, and came to spend the night at a ranch where the wifte of the host was a woman noted for her charity and unflagging interest in church work. Soon after supper this lady found concertunity to say to the bishop church work. Soon after supper this lady found opportunity to say to the hishop privately that she wanted him to have a talk with the colonel, her husband, whose life was not exactly in accord with the rules of the church. The bishop had had ecveral previous conversations of this character with the colonel, but was glad of an opportunity to discuss religious matters further and finally with him. Mrs. Colonel left her husband and the bishop alone in the parlor, and pretty scon the latter was making an earnest appeal to his host to lend a better life. The colonel appeared to be much interested, and gave the bishop his closest attention. Finally, he interrupted the clergyman:

gyman;
"Bishop, do you think my wife is all right?" he asked.

right?" he asked.

"All right?" repeated the bishop. "I do not understand what you mean."

"I mean do you think she will get through?" said the colonel.

"Get through?" said the bishop, still perplexed. "What do you mean?"

"I mean do you think she will get to heaven?" said the colonel.

"Well, if she doesn't there will be mighty few people in heaven," repited the bishop.

the bishop.
"That's exactly what I think," said th old colonel. "Two been thinking that for a long time now. And I tell you, bishop, if she gets to heaven and St. Peter wants to shut me out, she is going to raise so much h—i he'll have to open the door for me."

The Bishop said he saw it was use less to make further effort to induce the Colonel to reform.

HAD NO MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Another of the Bishop's stories was one oncerning his efforts to rulse money in the East for his Indian School. He was the East for his Indian School. He was to address a meeting in an Episcopal Church in Buffalo, N. Y., one Sunday morning, The pastor told him that sitting well up to the front in the church would be six millionaires who ought to be induced to contribute liberally. The Bishop spoke for his Indians for some time, his mind all the while on those millionaires. We saw that they were unmoved.

mind all the while on those millionaires. He saw that they were unmoyed.

He became desperate and finally told them the story of the conversation of a celebrated indian chief. He painted in graphic colors the cruelty and general cussedness of the chief.

"Why, he actually killed his mother-inlaw," said the Bishop, and he went on tell the story of the crime. The chief on starting out on the annual hunting expedition had ordered his wife to ,emove the family wigwam to high ground while he was gone, in order to get it out of the way of the floods to be expected in the Federal building are very busy serving subjects to the next term of the D strict and Chenit Courts of the Inited S at s at Norfolk, at the term beginning. (By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 24.-The Associated Press is able to announce the appoint-ment of Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, ment of Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador at Madrid, as British ambassador to the United States, to succeed the late Sir Michael Herbert, Official announcement of the appointment, however, will not be made until Monday, when the King will formally sign his commission.

The selection of Sir Henry to succeed Sir Michael Herbert was a surprise to most people here, chiefly because he has never had any official connection with Washington.

never had any official connection with Washington.

The Associated Press learns that Sir Henry has frequently expressed a great liking for Americans and a desire to go to the Uniter States. His promotion comes more or less in the ordinary course of diplomatic changes, but one of the strongest recommendations which appealed to Foreign Secretary Lansdowne was Sir Henry's reputation of being an excellent layyer. A similar qualification
